Kimberly Ramey is a Partner in Butler's main office located in Tampa, Florida. Her practice is primarily devoted to Liability Insurance Coverage disputes, with a focus on general liability coverage. She has extensive experience handling and litigating third-party claims involving a variety of coverages, including auto liability, commercial general liability, personal/premises liability, professional liability, and excess and umbrella. Kimberly is skilled at transferring risk and minimizing exposure in multi-party disputes, including those involving complex construction defects and catastrophic accidents. She is frequently retained to defend insureds in premises liability, automobile negligence, construction accident, construction defect, and personal injury cases.

Kimberly is the author of several articles published in legal journals, including publications issued by DRI and Mealey's. She is regularly invited to speak about insurance-related topics at regional and national industry conferences. Additionally, Kimberly is a member of the American Bar Association's Tort Trial and Insurance Practice Section (ABA), the Claims and Litigation Management Alliance (CLM), the Defense Research Institute (DRI), and the Property and Liability Resource Bureau (PLRB).

Kimberly earned her Doctor of Jurisprudence, magna cum laude, from Nova Southeastern University where she served as Articles Editor for Nova Law Review. She is a member of the Florida Bar and is also admitted to practice in all federal courts in the State of Florida as well as the 11th Circuit Court of Appeals.
