PARTIAL DIRECTED VERDICT IN FAVOR OF DEFENDANT, FOREMOST INSURANCE COMPANY AND AGAINST PLAINTIFF, RONALD BLUM AS TO COVERAGE C – PERSONAL PROPERTY

THIS CAUSE came before the Court for a jury trial during February 17 to February 21, 2020. At the close of Plaintiff, Ronald Blum's ("Mr. Blum") case, Defendant, Foremost Insurance Company ("Foremost") moved for a directed verdict as to Mr. Blum's claim for damage to a personal property in the form of tools and electronics that were insured under the insurance policy's Coverage C – Personal Property. Mr. Blum testified at trial that Foremost had issued $901.31 to him for the damage to the personal property. Mr. Blum testified at trial that he was not seeking any more money from Foremost for the personal property. Mr. Blum testified that he was not making any other claim to Foremost under the insurance policy's Coverage C – Personal Property other than the tools and electronics for which he was paid.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED AND ADJUDGED that the Court directs a verdict in favor of Foremost and against Mr. Blum with regard to Mr. Blum's claim for damage under the insurance policy's Coverage C – Personal Property, including any claim for the tools and electronics.
